Criteria for admission to the program

The Academic Committee of the Doctorate, having viewed the student's CV, will decide whether to admit him or her, bearing in mind the CV and academic record in accordance with the established evaluation criteria. The Academic Committee may also request letters of reference and a personal interview with the interested party in order to decide on admission. Applications for admission from candidates with foreign degrees from countries outside the EHEA will be forwarded by the Academic Committee of the Doctoral Program to the competent authority for final approval. Admission to the doctoral studies will entail assignment to one of the lines of research envisaged in the program and the allocation of a tutor.

How do I register for a Doctoral Programme?

Pre-enrolment on a Doctoral Program takes place online from September to October.

In SEPTEMBER the NEXT PRE-ENROLMENT PERIOD for the 2017/18 academic year will begin. To access the computer application where the pre-enrolment takes place, CLICK HERE. To access the preliminary registration app, click here.

To facilitate the process, we have prepared a tutorial which will explain, step by step, how to perform the pre-enrolment (you can download the tutorial below).

If, despite the above, you encounter problems with the pre-enrolment, you should contact the person named as the administrative contact. For queries about the Regulations of the doctoral studies, you can contact the Master's and Doctoral School by e-mail at doctorado.mde@ehu.eus.

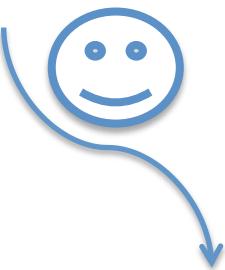

For the pre-enrolment to be valid the candidates for the Program must submit the required documentation online. If there is any problem with the computer application, the documentation may be sent directly to the person named as the administrative contact on the web page of the Doctoral Program.

Candidates who, despite meeting the access requirements of Royal Decree 99/2011, are not yet able to apply for the qualification, can pre-enrol and be admitted, provided that at the time of their enrolment they hold the said qualification.
